On August 17, 2011, the California Supreme Court issued an amended order that, in practical effect and with very limited exceptions, prevents all redevelopment agencies throughout California from conducting new business and requires them to take certain affirmative steps acting as if they are preparing to be dissolved. The Supreme Court has confirmed that the amended order applies to all redevelopment agencies, regardless of whether their counterpart cities have enacted an "opt-in" ordinance under ABx1 27, as is the case in the City of San Diego.

The Ad Hoc Committee's continued discussion of, and deliberation on, a proposed reorganization of the Redevelopment Agency is a new business item and is likely to be viewed as contrary to the Supreme Court's amended order. For that reason, the Ad Hoc Committee meeting on September 26, 2011, is being adjourned, and the Ad Hoc Committee will not convene to discuss the proposed reorganization of the Redevelopment Agency while the Supreme Court's amended order remains in effect. The Supreme Court's final ruling in the pending litigation involving the constitutionality of ABx1 26 and ABx1 27 is expected in early January 2012. If and when the Redevelopment Agency is permitted to conduct new business again, the Redevelopment Agency may consider extending the duration of the Ad Hoc Committee beyond its current expiration date on December 15, 2011.
