Estimated Cost: 22 officers with collateral duties are assigned to STF.

Juvenile Service Team Staff Cost: $66,884.00 per month

👉 SCHOOL SAFETY PATROL

Description: Each Area Command Juvenile Services Team has officers assigned to work the School Safety Patrol (SSP) program. 👉 LIFE SKILLS

Description: In September of 1999, the Police Department entered into a partnership with the San Diego Unified School District to implement a pilot program in the fifth grades of 13 elementary schools using the Life Skills Program developed by Professor Gilbert Botvin. The Life Skills Program was tested as a possible replacement program for the DARE Program.

good tobacco, The course introduces students to the skills required in making decisions, while demonstrating the consequences of making bad decisions. It also teaches cognitive behavioral skills that increase students' self esteem and awareness of the dangers of using alcohol and drugs. The curriculum is eight weeks long.

San Diego Unified School District met and agreed that this program was not working well. An agreement was reached to move this program to the middle school level and have it taught by certified teachers instead of police officers, as Professor Botvin intended in his original design. The Police Department agreed to enhance the School Safety Patrol Program, as previously described, for use in the elementary schools beginning in January of 2001.

Goal: To provide elementary age students with alternatives to drug abuse and peer pressure.

Children Affected: Approximately 650 in selected schools.

Success Rate: This was a pilot program in San Diego that did not work as well as anticipated for a variety of reasons. A three year study of its use in other school districts has shown it to be successful when it is taught at the appropriate level, by teachers, as part of a literacy program.

👉 COORDINATED AGENCY NETWORK (C.A.N.)/COMMUNITY RESPONSE OFFICER PROGRAM

Description: The C.A.N. program was a partnership between the Police Department and the San Diego County Probation Department. The mission of the program was to lower the juvenile crime rate and redirect juveniles to a more productive lifestyle. This was accomplished by coordinating the efforts of both agencies in monitoring juvenile offenders and educating them and their parents about the Juvenile Justice System.

C.A.N. was a grant funded pilot program implemented in the Police Department's Southern Division. It began in January of 1997, with 80 low risk@ juvenile wards being assigned to a probation officer working out of the Southern Division police station. Several patrol officers were assigned to also make contact with the wards and their families on a regular basis.

This program proved to be quite effective. A modified version named the Community Response Officer Program is currently being expanded to each of the Police Department's Area Commands and to selected Sheriff's Department Stations. The Probation Department has agreed to assign probation officers to work at the police stations with the officers and share Juvenile Probation Department data and resources with them. In turn, the Police Department has agreed to provide work space for the probation officers and work closely with them in monitoring juvenile offenders.

Goals: To protect the community through increased supervision of Juvenile Court wards.

To promote wards' compliance with court-ordered conditions of probation.

To strengthen working relationships between police officers, probation officers and the community.

To provide intervention and guidance to juveniles through increased supervision and mentoring.

To refer wards and their families to appropriate community-based programs to assist in developing lawful, healthy, productive lifestyles.

Children Affected: 195 juvenile offenders were monitored in the C.A.N. pilot program.

The Community Response Officer Program began implementation
